

DAVID RAVENSCROFT
Dip Arch. Registered Architect
BA(Hons) MBA

Secretary for the Black Country Constructing Excellence Club

David qualified as an Architect at Leicester Polytechnic in 1971, and started his professional career working on major housing projects for London boroughs. Later worked for a variety of private practices in London before moving to the West Midlands in the 1980's, where he has worked in both private practice and the public sector on a variety of projects.

David was employed by Wolverhampton City Council from 1990 until 2009. In 2002 he was appointed as Service Development Manager; his responsibilities included: introducing Partnering, sustainability, Project Management and Quality Management Systems into the department. He became Acting Group Manager, Project Delivery, in 2008, with a responsibility for the city's capital programme. He retains an active interest in the built environment, particularly with regard to sustainability and collaborative working.

He has been a committee member for the Black Country Constructing Excellence Club since inception, and is a national judge for the Constructing Excellence Awards. He is also and a long standing governor for a Bridgnorth secondary school.
